THIRTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL

Directory of Labor Organizations in Massachusetts, 1938

With Statistics of Membership, 1932-1937

INTRODUCTION

The material presented herewith constitutes the Thirty-seventh Annual Directory of Labor Organizations in Massachusetts, the first directory of this character having been published in August, 1902¹. Labor organizations, within the meaning of this publication, are groups of wage-earners organized for the purpose of bettering conditions of workmen through negotiations with employers and, to this end, are usually parties to either written or verbal agreements concerning wages and conditions of employment. The number of local unions listed in this issue is 1,625², a net increase of 223 over the number listed in the directory of 1937. This gain was largely due to the organizing and chartering of unions comprising wage-earners not heretofore in any union.

The present edition consists of four divisions, as follows:

I. "National and International Organizations" having one or more affiliated local unions in the United States (pages 3-9);

II. "Delegate Organizations" consisting of organizations composed of delegates from local unions whose members are in trades of a like character within a definite district or of delegates from local unions in the same locality, not necessarily in similar trades (pages 10-19);

III. "Local Trade Unions" composed of wage-earners in a single locality directly associated in what may be called the "unit body" of organization (pages 20-88); and

IV. "Statistics of Labor Organizations" showing number and membership of local unions at the close of each of the six years, 1932-1937, inclusive (pages 89-93).

At the close of December of each year a general canvass is made for the data which appear in this directory. Each national and international labor organization known to be in existence in the United States (See Section I) is requested to furnish the Department with the name and address of its corresponding official and a list of any Massachusetts locals affiliated, together with the names and addresses of certain officials of such unions. From the delegate type of organizations in Massachusetts (See Section II) somewhat similar data are secured. Each local unit known to be in existence, whether or not chartered by a parent body, is canvassed and detailed information is secured as to the time and place of meeting, the names and addresses of corresponding and other officials, and other relevant data (See Section III); these same unions also report the membership of their organization at the close of the year just ended (See Section IV).

Officials of those organizations from whom no report was received in response to the original request were visited by the statistical investigators of the Division, and the necessary data secured. There were also ascertained, from various sources, facts with reference to the forming of new unions and the disbanding of those formerly active. At the time of going to press, there were incorporated in this issue such changes in officials, in the time and place of meeting, etc., as had come to the attention of the Department since the original canvass was made. Subsequent changes cannot, of course, be made in this report, but are on record where known. Officials of organizations listed herein are urged to advise the Department of any such changes as they occur. The Department makes every effort to issue the directory as early in the year as possible, as much of its usefulness depends upon the promptness with which it is issued. In this endeavor we have had the cordial co-operation of the labor officials throughout the State.

¹ An edition of this directory has been published each year since 1902, except in 1903, in which year the directory for 1902 was reprinted.

² Total number of organizations listed in this issue is 1,952 of which number 173 are national and international organizations, 154 delegate organizations, and 1,625 local trade unions.

ABBREVIATIONS

III. LOCAL TRADE UNIONS.

The names of the local unions appear in the following presentation, grouped for ready reference by trade and occupational headings, under the respective municipalities in which their headquarters are located.

The following facts are given for each union: name and charter number (and brief identifying description where necessary); time and place of meeting, if held regularly each week or month at a given place; and name and address of secretary, business agent, or other authorized correspondent. Union meetings are usually held, on week days, about 7.30 or 8.00 P. M., and on Sundays, about 2.00 P.M. Where meetings are scheduled at other than such times, the hours are specified.

All but a few of the local unions are affiliated with national or international bodies. (See Section I for identification of affiliation of each national or international organization with the American Federation of Labor, the Committee for Industrial Organization, etc.).

"Federal Labor Unions" are directly chartered by the American Federation of Labor, and should not be confused with unions of federal or government employees.

IV. STATISTICS OF LABOR ORGANIZATIONS, 1932 TO 1937.

INTRODUCTORY.

The statistical data here presented have reference to the number and membership of labor organizations which were in existence in Massachusetts at the close of each of the years 1932 to 1937, inclusive. The questionnaire sent each January to officials of labor unions for the purpose of securing information for use in the directory, issued annually, includes an inquiry calling for the number of members of each local organization, by sex, as of December 31 of the previous year. For the most part, the information requested was secured by mail, but in those instances where the local officials failed to return the questionnaires, statistical investigators of the Department obtained the information from some official source.

Details with respect to individual unions are held strictly confidential, and are used only in the compilation of totals. Accordingly, in order not to disclose the membership of any organization reporting, the statistics presented in no case relate to less than five organizations in any group.

Statistics of labor organizations in Massachusetts were collected annually, beginning with the year 1908, by the former Bureau of Statistics, and since 1920 by the Division of Statistics of the Massachusetts Department of Labor and Industries. Summaries of the returns have been preserved in the files of the Department. The tabulations do not include unions of letter carriers, post office clerks, or railway mail clerks.

1. COMPARISON BY INDUSTRIES AND TRADES.

The number of local unions in Massachusetts at the close of 1937 was 1,423, which was an increase of 193 organizations over the number existing at the close of 1936. There were many entirely new unions in 1937 of groups not previously organized. Both the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization were active. In the tabulation of membership only those unions actually organized and chartered were considered.

The membership of local unions varied considerably during the six-year period under discussion. The minimum number during the period was 155,342 in 1932, there was a marked gain in 1933, a further gain to 246,411 in 1934, a large decrease in 1935, a small gain in 1936, and a very large gain in 1937. At the close of 1937 the membership was 297,038, of whom 242,183 were males and 54,855 were females. The maximum membership of labor organizations since these statistics were first collected (at the close of 1908) was 368,486, at the close of 1919, comprising 302,105 males and 66,381 females.

An endeavor has been made to classify each local organization with that industry or group of trades with which its members are most closely identified. Based on the number of local unions, the leading organized groups at the close of 1937 were as follows: building trades, 310; transportation (steam and electric), 246; metal and machinery trades, 87; textile industry, 81; printing and allied trades, 67; and boot and shoe industry, 58. There were 574 unions in various lesser industrial and trade groups.

Based on the membership of local unions three groups had very nearly the same total membership, namely: transportation, 37,330; boot and shoe industry, 36,195; and textile industry, 35,986. Others were: building trades, 27,250; metal and machinery trades, 22,989; and printing and allied trades, 8,508. The miscellaneous unions had a total membership of 128,780. The greatest numerical gain in 1937 in any of the major groups occurred in transportation (from 26,868 at the close of 1936 to 37,330 at the close of 1937), and in metal and machinery trades (from 16,880 to 22,989). In transportation the gain was largely due to recently organized unions of longshoremen and coastwise workers, and in the metal trades to increased membership in unions of electrical, radio, and machine workers. The miscellaneous trades and occupations showed their largest growths in membership in unions of garment workers, hotel and restaurant employees, meat cutters, paper and pulp workers, and teamsters, chauffeurs, etc.

2. DISTRIBUTION BY OCCUPATIONAL GROUPS.

It is the policy of the American Federation of Labor and affiliated organizations to organize members of a single craft or trade, or employees in closely related occupations. Where there is not a sufficiently large number of wage-earners in such craft or group to form a distinct local for that craft, the Federation charters "federal labor unions" which include those not eligible for admission to any of the existing organizations. These are usually replaced later by, or members are transferred to, other craft organizations. As a result of the NRA "codes" a new policy came into being by which all workers in a plant were admitted to a single organization, commonly known as a "plant" union, without regard to the class of work performed by them, but in which different crafts were represented in the governing body. This policy of organization was followed by the "Committee for Industrial Organization" after the suspension of its members from the American Federation of Labor, and continued to be its policy after the "Committee" became, in effect, a national labor organization.

In Table 2 data are presented for each of the six years, 1932-1937, inclusive, for each occupational group comprising at least 1,000 members at the close of 1937. For the boot and shoe industry and the textile industry it was not possible to show membership by occupations because of the prevalence of "mixed" unions comprising workers of all types. The occupational groups comprising at least 5,000 members at the close of 1937 were the following: teamsters, chauffeurs, etc., 18,124; garment workers, 16,252; electrical, radio and machine workers, 14,227; leather tannery workers, 9,565; street and electric railway employees, 8,757; carpenters, 8,382; hotel and restaurant employees, 7,930; government employees, 5,418; freight handlers and clerks, 5,360; telephone operators and workers, 5,331; musicians, 5,018; and railway clerks, 5,006. There were eleven other groups with a membership of between 2,500 and 5,000.

¹ Because of the prevalence of "mixed" unions, it is not possible to present data on an occupational basis for unions in the boot and shoe industry or in the textile industry.

² Data for earlier years cannot be shown without disclosing the membership of individual organization. Membership of unions in these groups is therefore included in the "All other" groups in those years.

3. DISTRIBUTION OF LOCAL UNION BY MUNICIPALITIES.

The principal field of activity of that type of labor organization known as a "local union" is the city or town in which a large majority of its members find employment and in which the headquarters are located. Frequently a local union in a city or town is granted jurisdiction over one or more cities or towns adjacent thereto. The jurisdiction of certain types of railroad unions oftentimes extends over an entire system, and their membership thus includes some employees from distant points on the system represented in a local union. In the city of Boston the total membership of organizations classified thereunder usually is much greater than the number of organized wage-earners who reside there, but the majority of whom are employed in Boston. The work entailed in ascertaining the residence of each member of a union would hardly be justified by the results obtained.

Data are presented in Table 3 showing the number and membership of local unions in Massachusetts at the close of each of the years 1932-1937, inclusive, classified by municipalities in which there were five or more unions and which had a membership of 500 or more at the close of 1937.

Boston far outranked the other 30 municipalities listed, with respect to the number of local unions and their membership, principally for reasons above stated. Of the 1,423 unions in Massachusetts, 372, or 26.1 per cent, had their headquarters in Boston. Their aggregate membership was 118,543, or 40.0 per cent of the total membership (297,038) of all local unions in the state at the close of that year. In eleven municipalities (including Boston) the number of organized wage-earners exceeded 5,000. The combined membership of the local unions in these eleven municipalities was 233,133, or 78.5 per cent of the aggregate membership in the state.

Time Rates of Wages and Hours of Labor in Massachusetts, 1938

INTRODUCTION

This report constitutes the 29th in a series of reports of this nature.¹ The rates shown were those effective as of July 1, 1938 in all cases except theatrical employment, in which the beginning of the fall contract season has been designated for many years as the effective date.

In the major portion of the report (Section "A. Industries and Trades") appear those data which relate to basic time rates and conditions of employment affecting members of labor organizations in Massachusetts as reported to the Department on a prescribed form, by officials of the local unions. The information so secured is occasionally supplemented by data from other official sources. In the remainder of the report are presented similar data concerning municipal employment (Section B), and for public utility companies (Section C). The rates herein recorded are comparable with those in similar prior reports and, together with such rates, are indicative of the trend of wages.

The increasing number of unions of the plant type has made it advisable to present, as separate additional tables, certain similar trade or occupational groups heretofore included as parts of larger tables. For example, the table "Longshoremen and Maritime Workers" includes marine cooks and stewards (formerly in the "Food and Beverages" table) and marine engineers and firemen, longshoremen, radio telegraphists and seamen (formerly in the "Miscellaneous Trades" table). Employees of retail stores have become more fully organized and a separate table is devoted to them in this issue.

The hotel and restaurant employees' unions have expanded to such an extent that the greater number of rates reported now warrants the presentation of such information separately, rather than under "Food and Beverages," as formerly.

The annual collection of these data relating to time rates of wages and hours of labor in Massachusetts is an important function of the Division of Statistics. With minor exceptions, rates or schedules presented in this report became effective as a result of verbal or written agreements between employers and organized employees. Notations relative to any known changes which occurred after the reporting date appear as footnotes.

In some industries, particularly the boot and shoe industry, the prevailing method of wage payments is on the basis of piece work prices. Hourly and weekly rates shown in this publication for the textile industry are those which apply when workers are engaged on a time basis at the operations named, many of which are ordinarily considered as being on a piece price basis.

The rates of wages as tabulated in this bulletin should not be confounded with actual earnings. The former are the rates agreed upon for a specified period of time, viz., an hour, day, or week; the latter result from the number of hours worked at these specified rates. An increase in earnings is not effected simply by an increase in rates, as a scarcity or abundance of work enters largely into the matter of earnings.

The hours of labor per day and per week have become fairly well standardized, with two schedules most prevalent, namely: a 5-day 40-hour week, and a 5½-day 44-hour week. Schedules calling for six straight 8-hour days now relate almost wholly to engineers and firemen, watchmen, etc. Because of the standardization of hourly and weekly schedules generally, the weekly hours of labor only are given in this report in all except a few tables. A 40-hour week was the one most generally in effect throughout the different industries.

The method of presentation adopted is fundamentally the same for all industries, but in certain tables, as in theatrical employment, the box headings have been changed in order to present more clearly the particular type of employment being considered. The basic units of payment for all occupations in a specified industry or trade are usually identical, that is, by the hour, day, or week. All relevant information has been shown in tabular form so far as possible, but many of the provisions of employment cannot thus be indicated and are accordingly briefly summarized in explanatory footnotes accompanying each table.

¹The first of this series of reports was issued in 1910 by the Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics as Part I of the Forty-first Annual Report on the Statistics of Labor. Subsequent reports were issued as Labor Bulletins by that Bureau and by the Department of Labor and Industries, to which department were transferred on December 1, 1919, certain of the functions of the former Bureau of Statistics.

When overtime work is necessary, it is an almost universal practice to pay the regular straight-time rate plus a given portion of that rate. These overtime rates are generally shown in symbolic form, as follows: 1T=straight time; $1\frac{1}{4}$ T=time and one-quarter; $1\frac{1}{2}$ T=time and one-half; and 2T=double time.

² Rates for fourteen performances weekly include two shows on Sunday; otherwise Sunday engagements are on a special basis.

⁵ With or without vaudeville.

⁶ Not over 30 hours, including rehearsals.

⁷ Rates paid in theatres not shown vary according to individual contracts, based on class of performance, playing time, etc.

¹ A minimum rate of $100 per week has been established by the International Union for carpenters, electricians, and propertymen traveling with road shows; $92.50 per week for all others. One day's work, one-sixth of weekly scale. Rates shown in table for heads of departments apply to carpenters, electricians, and propertymen who are regularly employed.

³ Rates in "Special Performance" column apply when employees are engaged for performances outside of the regular week-day schedule, for additional Sunday performances, for midnight shows, or for other than regular attractions.

⁴ Rate per day on a three-show basis.

⁵ Theatres operating under a straight picture policy do not include vitaphone or other mechanical pictures. Electricians are usually employed 6 days per week at broken time rate. When vaudeville acts are given in conjunction with pictures, the vaudeville scale prevails and the amount of help is required and paid for at vaudeville rates.

⁶ Rate per hour; guaranteed a minimum of $5.00.

⁷ Lower rate for vaudeville dressing, six days of three performances or less; higher rate for seven days or for four performances per day for six days.

⁸ Opera dressing.

⁹ Rate per hour.

¹⁰ Rates vary according to service in theatre; higher rate for dressing two principals.

¹¹ Rate per day.

¹ Opening and closing hours of barber shops are generally agreed upon locally, and barbers receive a fixed weekly rate plus a commission based on weekly receipts per chair. The commission usually consists of one-half the receipts in excess of an amount named.

² No fixed weekly rate; men receive 75 per cent of what they take in.

³ No fixed weekly rate; men receive 60 per cent of what they take in.

⁴ Minimum rate per week; men receive 70 per cent of what they take in.

⁵ No fixed weekly rate; men receive 65 per cent of what they take in.

⁶ No fixed weekly rate; men receive 70 per cent of what they take in.

⁷ If men take in $35.00 they get $25.00 and 50¢ over $35.00.

⁸ The bonus is usually paid only when receipts exceed $35 or $40 a week, depending upon the shop.

B. MUNICIPAL SERVICE

As in previous years, a questionnaire was sent to the mayors of cities and to the chairmen of the boards of selectmen of the towns in Massachusetts which have a population of over 10,000 according to the 1935 census. This questionnaire requests information regarding the rates of wages paid to "laborers, workmen, and mechanics" in municipal service as of July 1, 1938. Returns were received and are here presented for 75 municipalities (39 cities and 36 towns).

There are presented in the table the basic rates in effect in 1938 and notations of any wage cuts or plans of contributions which have been reported. In comparing rates for definite occupations in different cities care should be taken to ascertain the actual earnings.

The data in the table which follows are arranged alphabetically by municipalities and by occupations thereunder. Only those occupations are considered which come within the provisions of the General Laws of Massachusetts with reference to "laborers, workmen, and mechanics." A number of municipalities find it advisable to let out on contract certain types of construction and other work which they are either not equipped to perform or which can be performed more economically under such arrangements. The rates paid those on such contract work do not appear in this tabulation.

In each municipality, data with reference to the hours of labor appear in brief form after the tabulation of the established rates. Notations are also made regarding any special conditions of employment.

The maximum hours of labor in municipal employment are prescribed by the General Laws of Massachusetts (chapter one hundred and forty-nine). These laws, quotations from which appear below, become operative in whole or in part when all or certain sections thereof are accepted by the municipalities. No statement describing the action taken in this respect by the individual municipalities is here presented.

"The service of all laborers, workmen and mechanics (. . . engineers shall be regarded as mechanics. . .) . . . is here restricted to eight hours in any one day . . . and to forty-eight hours in any one week.

"No officer of . . . any such town, no such contractor or sub-contractor or other person whose duty it is to employ, direct or control the service of such laborers, workmen or mechanics shall require or permit any such laborer, workman or mechanic to work more than eight hours in any one day, . . . or more than forty-eight hours in any one week, except in cases of extraordinary emergency.

"It shall not be a violation of section thirty or thirty-one (above extracts are quoted from these sections) if, in the event of a Saturday half-holiday being given to a laborer, workman or mechanic, his hours of labor upon other working days are increased sufficiently to make a total of forty-eight hours for his week's work.

"In any town not subject to section thirty or thirty-one nine hours shall constitute a day's work for all laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by or on behalf of such town."

In the matter of wage payments and overtime, there are several generally accepted methods of payments, as follows:

Those persons employed on an hourly basis receive pay for the actual number of hours worked.

Employees on a daily basis are paid a definite wage for each day worked, whether a full week-day or a Saturday half-holiday, but, in the case of a 44-hour weekly schedule calling for only 4 hours' employment on Saturday, the full daily wage is usually not paid for work on Saturday morning unless the employee shall have worked a given number of hours (optional with the municipality) during the first five days of the week. Employees working the full schedule therefore receive for a full week's services six times the daily wage.

In the event that the schedule calls for 48 hours' employment during the week, special daily schedules may be arranged to provide for a Saturday half-holiday without lessening the total number of hours of service required to be performed per week (see third extract quoted in the section just preceding). A schedule quite commonly adopted calls for 8 $\frac{3}{4}$ hours for each of the first five days of the week and $\frac{3}{4}$ hours on Saturdays. The daily wage for each day worked is one sixth of the weekly wage for 48 hours' employment. The rearrangement of the schedule of hours to provide for a Saturday half-holiday does not affect the daily wage payable unless the employee shall have worked insufficient hours to entitle him to a full week's pay. If he has worked only part time, he receives for each hour worked one-eighth of the established daily wage.

Those employed on a weekly basis receive a stipulated sum for a given number of hours of service per week. When less than a full week is worked, a proportionate part of the weekly wage is paid.

When overtime is necessary "... in cases of extraordinary emergency," employees are paid on a special basis under regulations adopted by the governing bodies of the municipalities or under rulings of the departmental heads. If overtime should be necessary on a continuing job, not classified as an emergency, the working time of those so engaged is arranged so that the maximum hours for a week's work may not be exceeded and the regular weekly earnings are not increased because of such work. In certain classes of service a limited number of persons are employed on Sunday, and are either paid on a special basis or else the schedule of hours is arranged so that not more than 48 hours are worked in any seven days.

In the case of holidays, special rulings are made by the municipalities. Permanent employees are usually granted holidays with pay. Those actually employed on such days are paid on a special basis or allowed time off in lieu of overtime pay.

C. PUBLIC UTILITIES

The information relating to public utilities are presented in five sections. The data shown for employees of gas and electric companies (Table 19) are those arrived at as a result of written agreements between the companies and union employees. The rates of wages and bases of employment shown for passenger bus companies (Table 20) are those furnished by the companies, many of which are parties to signed agreements with their employees. The railway express service rates (Table 21) were supplied by the national office of the union of such employees. Rates of wages and hours of labor affecting employees of street and electric railway companies (Table 22) are in most instances the result of formal agreements between street railway lines and labor organizations. The data presented under telephone service (Table 23) were furnished by the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company; care should be used in comparing these rates with those in private employment because of the fact that much of the work is of a nature peculiar to telephone service.

¹The rates appearing on the schedules become effective upon completion of the specified periods of actual length of service. The hours of labor to which the weekly rates of wages apply range from 30 to 40 hours per week, varying according to the nature of the tour assigned. In comparison with those on day assignments, Operators, Junior Supervisors and Supervisors assigned to forenoon-evening, afternoon-evening, evening, night first half, and all night tricks receive a differential either in a reduced number of hours of work, or additional compensation, or both, depending upon the type of assignment.

²These rates were made effective on May 16, 1937 for senior operators who had 13 years' service or more on that date, or were in the group having between 12 and 13 years' service on August 30, 1936.

³Junior Supervisors are paid at a rate of $1.00 more per week than operators or senior operators of corresponding service.

⁴Chief Clerks are not paid in accordance with a definite wage schedule but their rates of pay are at least $1.00 more per week than the rates of Supervisors of corresponding service. Senior Clerks are paid at a rate of $2.00 more per week than operators or senior operators of corresponding service. Clerks are paid at a rate of $1.00 more per week than operators or senior operators of corresponding service.
